TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW. From Dear Kate's Scrap-Book.

Though shadows robe the sky to-day, And turns our joy to sorrow, Vet all the chords will break away And bring the sun to-mirrow. Then why should any one look sad, And moorn for hopes departed, When just beyond us eyes are glad, From which the tears are started.

Time in numbering of years, Mayadd a day of sorrow, But even this need bring no tears, For joy will come to morrow, And hearts may cling with feeble powers To hopes that had been riven, Yet age will bring ue brighter hours In thoughts of rest and heaven.

Then ever as our happiness Is hall eclipsed by sorrow, Look up, and hope on, none the less For joy may come to-morrow And still be hopeful to the last, Whalever may befall us. Till jey and grief allke are past,

And angels home shall call us. -Kate Castleton, one of the most beautiful women and un actress of note,

Middlesboro in reply to resolutions that it passed, in which he says of the force bill: "I do not wonder that you speak of it as a horror of republicanism. Such doctriues as it embodies are a direct attack upon the spirit and theory of our government, and while such a measure especially menaces the welfare and prosperity of the South, it must be condenined and denounced by all those everywhere who love their country and have the least claim to be numbered among those who believe in the principles of true democracy."

Gov. Close of the Career of the Renowned Explorer.

Romantic Record of the Man Who Has Hone More Than Any Other for the Civitization of the Nrtives of Africa.

The Boston Tageblatt confirms the recent rumors of the death in the interlor of Africa of Umin Pasha. If It Is true that Emin Is dead the natural supposition is that he has fallen a victim to smallpax, from which reports in April stated he was suffering.

The birth and early life of Emin Pasha are shrouded in mystery. He has been called Dr. Schuitzer, and It is said he was born in either Prassia or Austrlan Silesla utont 1838 or 1840. A coulde of years ago un assurance was given that he was born March 28, 1810, at Oppein, Prussian Silesia. His father died when the boy vas quite young, but his mother is still living. According to this report, young Schnitzer graduated from the gymnasium at Neisse, went to the University of Breslan and to Kingsberg to study medicine, afterward studying at Paris and Vienna. He also ornithology especially. Wandering eastward, he became the companion of Ismael Paska in his journeys to Trebizund, Erzroom, Constantinople and Janha, in Epirus. BOB FORD'S DEATH.

The Cowardly Slayer of Jesse James Floally Brought to Earth.

Bob Ford, who was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff Edward Kelly In a dance hall at Creede, Col., a few days ago, has been notorlous throughout the west for many years and feared as a contemptlble traltor since he killed Jesse James, the outlaw chief, in a St. Joseph (Mo.) cottage on April 3, 1882. He came into Creede when the town first started and has been there ever since, except for six or seven weeks, when he was forced to be away by threats of hanging for promiscuous shooting in the streets while on a drunk with Joe Palmer. Kelly, who finally brought Ford down, is the man who was reported to have killed him last February, and the row a few nights ugo is supposed to be a sequel to the former quarrel, of which Kelly had the worst. At that time he swore vengeance, and Ford was always expect-Ing to be downed by Kelly or some one else. The shouting was done with no other words than "flello, Bob," from Kelly and none at all from Ford, who died Instantly. Lelly is now under arrest and gnarded by an unknown, who Is supposed to have branded him the shotgun with which he killed Ford.

Bole Ford's death is not regretted. He devoted much time to at tural sciences, has had several rows in Colorado, but, being a coward, never went into open fight without an advantage. He has mother is a daughter of Mr. Whitehead, been held in contempt ever since he killed Jesse James in such a cowardly | As a result of this conjunction of Gerfashion in that St. Joseph cottage. ward Will Save Them. The relief party sent by the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia to bring back home Lient. Peary, his brave wife and band of followers from aretic fields set saif a few days ago.

Lieut, Peary's party of North Greenland explorers was landed by the Academy of Sciences' West Greenland expedition on the east shore of McCormick's bay, in latitude 77 degrees and 45 minntes, on July 27, 1991. McCormick's bay is a branch of Murchlson's sound and is about seven hundred miles from the pole. After unloading the stores and building a house for the party the Kite, with Capt. Pike In charge and the neadeany party on board, steamed away from home on July 30. When Penry was landed he was carrled off in a litter, as he had broken his leg severnl weeks before. He was given a sixteen months' supply of provisions, seven tons of coal, besides a good supply of kerosene and alcohol.

cerned they were as safe as regards fuel and food as though they were living in Canada. The danger that awaits them is the possibility of their being forced to remain at McCormlek's bay for a seeond winter, lp case no relief ship came to hand, or the possible disasters that might overtake them were they to uttempt to make their way this summer along the coast.

Besides Light. Peary and his wife there are five other members of the party. The chief man is Longdon Gibson, of Long Island, the emithologict J. M. Verneelf is the next man in importance on the expedition. The other members of the party are Dr. F. A. Cook, of Brooklyn; Astrup, a Norwegian, and Watt Henson, a Phlladelphia colored man. The ship in which the resene party salled is the Kite, in which the explorer was carried to Greenland.

The union of Austro or German Hungarian, Greek, Italian and other races has produced a population of musual grace, intellect and vivacity, and the new Countess Bismarck has for some time been the belle of this composite society.

A Successful Woman Parmer. Mrs. Nannie Osborne, of Utah, has lately taken high rank as a successful farmer. Her hisland went to that territory for his health, and had just got a farm established on an island in Great Salt lake, about ten miles from the city, when he died. This was ten years ugo, and she now leas the linest farm in Utali, and is making large profits from the proceeds of it. Her ranch is on such soil that it is highly favorable for garden produce, and the greater portion of the place is devoted to truck farming, the product being sent to Salt Lake City for sale. A visit to the farm showed that Mrs. Osborne had the science of farming down to a fine point, and as n result of her labors she is clearing from to increase it to $19,000, as she has added n chicken ranch to the garden farm. She has two incubators in full blast and expects by early summer to have 600 broilers ready for nurket, which will find ready sale in Salt Lake City. Mrs. Osborne's ranch was under a heavy mortgage when her husband died, but now it is clear, and she has put over $1,000 worth of improvements on it since the debt was paid.

These are also useful in cases of sprain. blows or overexertion, but they must not remain on too long. One-tenth of the care bestowed upon a great sporting horse would make a farm horse feel too proud of himself. But there is little risk of such a horse ever feeling too proud from any such reason. A Scotch hired plowman grooms his team with a degree of loving interest and pride to which the average American farmer is almost a stranger, though the Clydesdale team belongs to another man and the man who works it is only a hireling, while the American generally owns the team and, as a rule, the farm as well. Why should not the more valuable beast, because the more useful, have a little of the warmth of interest bestowed npon him that is ungrudgingly bestowed upon a 2:121/2 trotter?

SWEET SONGS OF ZION.

They Have Comforted Many an Aged Pilgrim With Foresimolowed tellmpses of

One dear old friend who lived almost continually in the past used to take great delight in living over again scenes of a pleasant nature in which she had once mingled, traveling often in imagination to distant eltles, performing journeys again taken fully half a century before, often diverting these of younger generations with spirited reminiscences of occurrences and enstons interesting from their old-time flavor and strangeness when compared with customs of the present day. But once in awhlle the recollections of dark experiences, days of trial and deep uffletion, Mother-Did you take good care of days when she was subjected to treat ment unjust and unnærited, would come over her spirit like in depressing cloud. It was always easy to tell when "Auntie" was encompassed and depressed by these forbidding memories. But her trusting Christian spirit would not long remain under this spell. First, someone would hear her say: "There I'm not going to think of those things any longer. It's no use; they're past, and I will not allow myself to dwell on them." Then, kindling with a resolution worthy of lmltmtion on the part of many a younger and stronger disciple, the dear old voice would rise in quavery measures, and for perhips an hour we would hear her singing the songs of her youth songs which, not pertaining to the passing fashious of the world, and being applicable to all times, can never outlive their day, and in one sense can never grow old. SHEEP SCAB.

The Right Laws That Blave Destroyed It in Amstralia.

By latest reports there is not a diseased sheep to be found in the vast proviuces of Victoria or New South Wales, thanks to stringent and strictly enforced laws. As soon as it was settled that Australia was adapted to sheep raising An English Physician Speaks of Flubla and the growth of the finest wool in the world, those engaged in the business set themselves to work to fix rules and these stringent laws stood behind the officers charged with their enforcement weather are fish, such kinds of meat as and compelled them to perform their fowls and game, green vegetables, salads duty. Infected flocks not promptly iso- and fruit. Furinaceous food-that is, lated and treated by their owners were starches-should be taken in the very taken possession of by officials, appraised smallest quantity only. Sufficient sugar and slaughtered, and their carcasses would be found in the different fruits piled up and burned, together with the that the season of the year produces, and buildings and fences with which they had been in contact. In such instances three-fourths of the estimated value of doing ordinary physical or mental work. the stock was made good to the owner the following would represent an ordifrom the public treasury. To meet this nary day's food for hot weather as far expenditure a tax was laid against each as quantity and constituents are conflock owner according to the number of cerned: sheep he possussed. This rigorous policy had the desired effect.

In a few years scab disappeared and the success of sheep husbandry was assured. These measures were supplemented by stringent laws against tho introduction of sheep from foreign conntries; even those transferred from one colony to another were subjected to quarantine and were dipped before being released; indeed, all had and still have to undergo a rigorous quarantine for six weeks previous to their removal. Under the inspector all sheep have to this means the disease is kept perfectly under control. Why have we no such laws in America? If there are, what is the use of them if they are never enforced? Examine our sheep pens in connection with our great stock yards; they actually reek with the disease, the miserable sheep disseminating scab wherever they go, yet there is no hand to stay its ravages. Shearing only takes place once a year in Australia, and immediately after shearing every sheep is required by law to be dipped in a solution of tobacco and sulphur. The proportions are one pound of each to four gallons of water.

The sheep inspectors see that all owners obey this law etrictly, and if they find that through neglect the sheep of any owner are becoming diseased they may by law have thein cared for and charged to the owner. In addition to the above the law provides that if the sheep of one owner, being diseased, get Nokes questions whether too much can among and disease those of another the be takeu. Fluid in this way is to the former is liable to damages. As might be expected under the influence of such sauitary and police laws sheep husbandry is placed upon a safe, permanent and profitable basis.—William Watson in profitable basis.-William Watson in Breeder's Gazette.

Electric Oxford.

Oxford having taken unto herself a tramway, and survived what many of her inhabitants regarded as an act of greatest gain per day and at the least the direct profamation, is about to give further proofs of her readiness to move with the times by the adoption of the electric light in her thoroughfares and public buildings. The compactness of THE SIMPLEST MEANS Oxford lends itself admirably to the purpose, for although the compulsory area laid down in the provisional order THE SHORTEST TIME granted by the board of trade is only a quarter of a mile square, it comprises 12 colleges, 29 public buildings and Most Satisfactory and the Most churches, 9 hetels and 340 shops, offices and private houses.
